A CLIMATIC FRONTIER BETWEEN EUROPE AND MEDITERANEAN

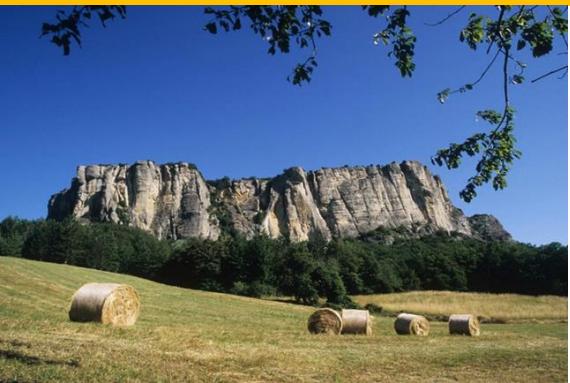

- █ Atlantic
- █ Black Sea
- █ Boreal
- █ Continental
- █ Mediterrenean
- █ Pannonian
- █ Steppic

Climatic and geological diversity between Tosco (south) and Emiliano (north) Apennine's ridges, have generated a richness of biodiversity. In this territory have been recognized 42 habitats of Community interest (8 priority types and 3 of regional interest).

RURAL AND CULTURAL PATCHWORK OF LANDSCAPES

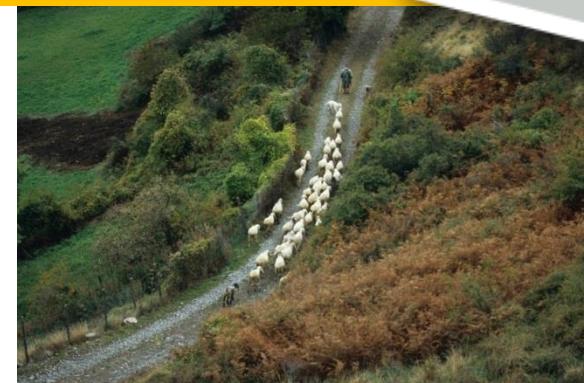

Age-old interrelationship between humans and the territory has shaped a rural and cultural patchwork of landscapes

From Parmigiano Reggiano grasslands and wide beech forests to chestnut groves, cereal crops, vineyards and olive groves.

A RICH HAMPERER OF TRADITIONAL FOOD PRODUCTS

Neither in Italy nor in the world there is another small area that can be proud of such great and high-quality agricultural-food. 64 of them have been identified and classified by the Ministry of Agricultural Policy – many of them follow a strictly production disciplinary and obtained quality label (PDO and PGI, Slow Food Presidia)
